One Universal Creator God. By The Grace Of The True Guru:
In the Golden Age of Sat Yuga, was Truth; in the Silver Age of Trayta Yuga, charitable feasts; in the Brass Age of Dwaapar Yuga, there was worship.

In those three ages, people held to these three ways. But in the Iron Age of Kali Yuga, the Name of the Lord is your only Support.

How can I swim across?

No one has explained to me,

so that I might understand how I can escape reincarnation.

So many forms of religion have been described; the whole world is practicing them.

What actions will bring emancipation, and total perfection?

One may distinguish between good and evil actions, and listen to the Vedas and the Puraanas, but doubt still persists. Skepticism continually dwells in the heart, so who can eradicate egotistical pride?

suDh kavan par ho-ibo such kunchar biDh bi-uaar. ||4||
So how can he become pure? His method of purification is like that of an elephant, covering himself with dust right after his bath! ||4||

रवि प्रगास रजनी जथा गति जानत सभ संसार ॥ rav pargaas rajnee jathaa gat jaanat sabh sansaar.
With the rising of the sun, the night is brought to its end; the whole world knows this.

पारस मानो ताबो छुए कनक होत नही बार ॥५॥

It is believed that with the touch of the Philosopher's Stone, copper is immediately transformed into gold. ||5||

When one meets the Supreme Philosopher's Stone, the Guru, if such pre-ordained destiny is written on one's forehead,

उनमन मन मन ही मिले छुटकत बजर कपाट ॥६॥
unman man man hee milay chhutkat bajar kapaat. ||6||
then the soul blends with the Supreme Soul, and the stubborn doors are opened wide. ||6||

Through the way of devotion, the intellect is imbued with Truth; doubts, entanglements and vices are cut away.

सोई बसि रस मन मिले गुन निरगुन एक विचार ॥७॥

The mind is restrained, and one attains joy, contemplating the One Lord, who is both with and without qualities. ||7|| duDh bin Dhayn pankh bin pankhee jal bin ut-bhuj kaam nahee.

A cow without milk; a bird without wings; a garden without water - totally useless!
What is an emperor, without respect? The chamber of the soul is so dark, without the Name of the Lord. ||1||

How could I ever forget You? It would be so painful!

I would suffer such pain - no, I shall not forget You! ||1||Pause||

The eyes grow blind, the tongue does not taste, and the ears do not hear any sound.

He walks on his feet only when supported by someone else; without serving the Lord, such are the fruits of life. ||2||

The Word is the tree; the garden of the heart is the farm; tend it, and irrigate it with the Lord's Love.

All these trees bear the fruit of the Name of the One Lord; but without the karma of good actions, how can anyone obtain it? ||3||

As many living beings are there are, they are all Yours. Without selfless service, no one obtains any reward.
Pain and pleasure come by Your Will; without the Name, the soul does not even exist.

To die in the Teachings is to live. Otherwise, what is life? That is not the way.

Says Nanak, He grants life to the living beings; O Lord, please keep me according to Your Will.

Let the body be the Brahmin, and let the mind be the loin-cloth;

let spiritual wisdom be the sacred thread, and meditation the ceremonial ring.

I seek the Name of the Lord and His Praise as my cleansing bath.

By Guru's Grace, I am absorbed into God.

O Pandit, O religious scholar, contemplate God in such a way that His Name may sanctify you, that His Name may be your study, and His Name your wisdom and way of life. ||1||

The outer sacred thread is worthwhile only as long as the Divine Light is within.

So make the remembrance of the Naam, the Name of the Lord, your loin-cloth and the ceremonial mark on your forehead.

Here and hereafter, the Name alone shall stand by you.

Do not seek any other actions, except the Name. ||2||

Worship the Lord in loving adoration, and burn your desire for Maya.

Behold only the One Lord, and do not seek out any other.

Become aware of reality, in the Sky of the Tenth Gate;

आवहि इमु रासी के वापारीए जिन्हा नामु पिआरा ॥
Those who love the Naam come as dealers in the merchandise of the Naam.
Those who become Gurmukh obtain this wealth; deep within, they contemplate the Shabad. ||4||

The egotistical, self-willed manmukhs do not appreciate the value of devotional worship.

The Primal Lord Himself has beguiled them; they lose their lives in the gamble. ||5||

Without loving affection, devotional worship is not possible, and the body cannot be at peace.

The wealth of love is obtained from the Guru; through devotion, the mind becomes steady. ||6||

He alone performs devotional worship, whom the Lord so blesses; he contemplates the Word of the Guru's Shabad.

The One Name abides in his heart, and he conquers his ego and duality. ||7||

The One Name is the social status and honor of the devotees; the Lord Himself adorns them.

In sorrow, they eat, and in sorrow, they gather things and try to enjoy them, but they only increase their stores of sorrow.

O Nanak, one easily crosses over the terrifying world-ocean, when he comes to the Sanctuary of the Guru.

Shalok, First Mehl:

If one accepts the concept of impurity, then there is impurity everywhere.

In cow-dung and wood there are worms.

As many as are the grains of corn, none is without life.

Aasaa Of Kabeer Jee, Du-Padas:
One Universal Creator God. By The Grace Of The True Guru:

When the Diamond of the Lord pierces the diamond of my mind, the fickle mind waving in the wind is easily absorbed into Him.

This Diamond fills all with Divine Light; through the True Guru's Teachings, I have found Him.

The sermon of the Lord is the unstruck, endless song.

Becoming a swan, one recognizes the Diamond of the Lord.

Says Kabeer, I have seen such a Diamond, permeating and pervading the world.

The hidden diamond became visible, when the Guru revealed it to me.

My first wife, ignorance, was ugly, of low social status and bad character; she was evil in my home, and in her parents' home.

Reflect within your mind, that by enshrining love for the One Lord, you shall not be subject to birth and death again. ||4||

He alone is said to be a Guru, he alone is said to be a Sikh, and he alone is said to be a physician, who knows the patient's illness.

He is not affected by actions, responsibilities and entanglements; in the entanglements of his household, he maintains the detachment of Yoga. ||5||

He renounces sexual desire, anger, egotism, greed, attachment and Maya.

Within his mind, he meditates on the reality of the Imperishable Lord; by Guru's Grace he finds Him. ||6||

Spiritual wisdom and meditation are all said to be God's gifts; all of the demons are turned white before him.

He enjoys the taste of the honey of God's lotus; he remains awake, and does not fall asleep. ||7||

Some remain absorbed in Samaadhi, their minds fixed lovingly on the One Lord; they reflect only on the Word of the Shabad.

In that state, there is no water, land, earth or sky; only the Creator Lord Himself exists. ||2||
There is no intoxication of Maya there, and no shadow, nor the infinite light of the sun or the moon.

The eyes within the mind which see everything - with one glance, they see the three worlds.

He created air, water and fire, Brahma, Vishnu and Shiva - the whole creation.

All are beggars; You alone are the Great Giver, God. You give Your gifts according to Your own considerations.

Three hundred thirty million gods beg of God the Master; even as He gives, His treasures are never exhausted.

Nothing can be contained in a vessel turned upside-down; Ambrosial Nectar pours into the upright one.

The Siddhas in Samaadhi beg for wealth and miracles, and proclaim His victory.

As is the thirst within their minds, so is the water which You give to them.

He alone finds such a True Guru, upon whose forehead the Lord inscribed such pre-ordained destiny.

Servant Nanak is a sacrifice to his Guru; when he was wandering in doubt, He placed him on the Path. ||1||

Third Mehl:

Beholding Maya with her three dispositions, he goes astray; he is like the moth, which sees the flame, and is consumed.

The mistaken, deluded Pandits gaze upon Maya, and watch to see whether anyone has offered them something.

In the love of duality, they read continually about sin, while the Lord has withheld His Name from them.

The Yogis, the wandering hermits and the Sannyasaees have gone astray; their egotism and arrogance have increased greatly.
They do not accept the true donations of clothes and food, and their lives are ruined by their stubborn minds.

Among these, he alone is a man of poise, who, as Gurmukh, meditates on the Naam, the Name of the Lord.

Unto whom should servant Nanak speak and complain? All act as the Lord causes them to act.

Emotional attachment to Maya, sexual desire, anger and egotism are demons.

Because of them, mortals are subject to death; above their heads hangs the heavy club of the Messenger of Death.

The self-willed manmukhs, in love with duality, are led onto the path of Death.

In the City of Death, they are tied up and beaten, and no one hears their cries.

Sorat'h, First Mehl:

The treasure of the Name, for which you have come into the world - that Ambrosial Nectar is with the Guru.

Renounce costumes, disguises and clever tricks; this fruit is not obtained by duplicity. ||1||

O my mind, remain steady, and do not wander away.

By searching around on the outside, you shall only suffer great pain; the Ambrosial Nectar is found within the home of your own being. ||Pause||

मन रे समझु कवन मति लागा ॥
O mind, you must realize what your intellect is focused on.
Forgetting the Naam, the Name of the Lord, one is involved with other tastes; the unfortunate wretch shall come to regret it in the end. ||Pause||

When things come, he is pleased, but when they go, he weeps and wails; this pain and pleasure remains attached to him.

The Lord Himself causes him to enjoy pleasure and endure pain; the Gurmukh, however, remains unaffected. ||2||

What else can be said to be above the subtle essence of the Lord? One who drinks it in is satisfied and satiated.

One who is lured by Maya loses this juice; that faithless cynic is tied to his evil-mindedness. ||3||

The Lord is the life of the mind, the Master of the breath of life; the Divine Lord is contained in the body.

If You so bless us, Lord, then we sing Your Praises; the mind is satisfied and fulfilled, lovingly attached to the Lord. ||4||
